MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director (Support)

SUBJECT : Engineers', Scientists', and
Architects' Day

1. In connection with the nation wide observance of Engineers' Week, the D. C. Council of Engineering and Architectural Societies and the Washington Academy of Sciences propose to honor three young professional men, an architect, an applied scientist, and an engineer, on Thursday, 25 February 1960. The Chairman of the Professional Awards Committee has invited the Agency, by letter dated November 9, 1959, to nominate a staff member from the Agency for special recognition during Engineers' Week.

2. The Office of Logistic's nominee for recognition as outlined above is [REDACTED] Architect, of our Building Planning Staff. The specific achievement which is the basis for [REDACTED] nomination is the scheme he devised for templating Agency space layouts for the new headquarters building. We know of no such planning scheme for other large office buildings whether constructed by the Government or by private industry. [REDACTED] installed a somewhat similar system when he was with the National Security Agency working on their new building at Fort Meade, but the plan was not undertaken until late in the course of construction and was not developed to the extent we have carried it here.

3. [REDACTED] meets all requirements established by the Professional Awards Committee with respect to age, location and profession. The three enclosed attachments provide the information required by the Committee with respect to basic personal data, description of present duties, and the description of the specific achievement on which the nomination is based. The Committee also requested a photograph to be used for publicity and display purposes and this will be furnished if the Agency decides to nominate [REDACTED]
